

Share Information About Your Kansas Treasures

The Kansas State Historical Records Advisory Board (KSHRAB) conducts Archives Month activities each October to promote awareness of historical records and their preservation. A multi-year approach begins in 2009 based on the theme "Historical Records Are Everywhere."

This year the board will collect information about the documents and treasures held by Kansas institutions—historical societies; museums; county government; library, college, and university special collections; and college and university archives. A blog was created at archiveskansas.wordpress.com. Please visit this blog and add comments about one or two of your favorite documentary treasures—be they letters, diaries, photographs, or government records.

The information will be used during Archives Month 2009 and throughout the year to develop materials for the Archives Month 2010 activities. Please help us by providing information about your special treasures.

Researchers are invited to provide information about the documentary treasures they have used in Kansas repositories.
